

Westvlees – (Electro)mechanical Technician - Cutting Room

What are you going to do?

As an electromechanical technician, you are responsible for ensuring the optimal operation of the machines and installations in our cutting room. You work in a modern production environment where accuracy, hygiene, and efficiency are key.

Your tasks:

- Performing maintenance and repairs on cutting machines, conveyor belts, packaging lines, and portioning systems
- Resolving both mechanical and electrical malfunctions
- Replacing and repairing parts such as bearings, motors, sensors, blades, and drive systems
- Adjusting and optimizing machines for smooth and high-quality production
- Carrying out preventive maintenance according to schedule
- Contributing to technical improvements to enhance efficiency and reliability
- Collaborating with fellow technicians and production staff
- Strictly adhering to safety, hygiene, and food safety regulations (HACCP)

What do you bring to the table?

- You have a degree in mechanics, electromechanics, or equivalent experience
- You have a strong interest in maintenance and technology within a production environment
- Both mechanics and electricity appeal to you
- You are able to read and interpret technical drawings and schematics
- Experience with production or food-processing machines is an advantage
- You work accurately and have an eye for hygiene
- You have a practical mindset and are solution-oriented
- You are flexible and able to work independently

What can you expect from us?

- A stable and modern working environment with well-equipped workshops
- Flexible holiday planning – no collective closure period
- A full-time permanent contract with an attractive salary based on experience
- Extra benefits: fresh meals in the company restaurant, discounted meat purchases, family activities, year-end packages, and more

- Real opportunities for career growth within a dynamic and healthy company
- Sports facilities such as an on-site padel court
- An excellent company restaurant offering steak and fries every Thursday

Ready to take the next step?

Then we would love to get to know you! Apply today and who knows, we might soon welcome you to the Westvlees family.

<https://www.westvlees.com/nl>