Join the Westvlees team as a Line Supervisor.

What will you do?

As a Line Supervisor, you are a key figure on the production floor. You ensure that operations within your area run smoothly, safely, and efficiently while maintaining the highest quality standards. - You ensure everyone clearly understands their tasks and maintain an overview of the production floor.
- You organize and coordinate daily activities to keep production running efficiently.
- You actively support operations whenever needed and lead by example.
- You identify issues in time, find appropriate solutions, or escalate them to your manager when necessary.
- You are the first point of contact for your team and act as the link between the team and management.
- You continuously monitor quality, safety, and hygiene standards within your area.
- You are a natural people manager who knows how to motivate, guide, and develop a team.
- You communicate clearly, both with colleagues on the production floor and with your managers.
- You stay calm under pressure and enjoy working towards clear goals.
- You have a hands-on mentality: for you, leading a team also means rolling up your sleeves and getting involved.
- You are fluent in English, French, and/or Dutch.
- You already have some leadership experience, or you are eager to take your first steps in a leadership role.
- You are flexible and able to adapt to changing priorities.
- A market-based salary, complemented by attractive fringe benefits
- Thorough internal training with opportunities for external professional development
- A warm, family-oriented company culture where common sense is key
- A cosy company restaurant serving high-quality and delicious meals (steak and fries every Thursday!)
- An environment where colleagues know, support and work together with each other
- Fun @work: enjoy a game of padel with your colleagues and relax afterwards with a refreshing shower
- And above all: job security in a stable and growing company
